RE: Disability Organizations Request Funding for NIDILRR in FY 2026 Budget

Dear Chairs Moore Capito and Aderholt and Ranking Members Baldwin and DeLauro:

On behalf of the Disability and Rehabilitation Research Coalition (DRRC) and the broader disability and rehabilitation research community, the undersigned individuals, organizations, and institutions urge you to fund the National Institute on Disability, Independent Living, and Rehabilitation Research (NIDILRR) at no less than $119 million in the Fiscal Year (FY) 2026 Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations bill. While we recognize that federal funding is constrained, this flat funding level is the minimum necessary to sustain NIDILRR's essential research programs and ensure the continuation of vital grants to the disability and rehabilitation research community.

NIDILRR plays a unique and critical role within the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) by serving as the federal government's primary research agency focused on improving the lives of people with disabilities. Its mission—to generate new knowledge and promote its effective use to improve the lives of individuals with disabilities through improved health and function, ability to return to work, and independent living—is unique within the federal government and not duplicated by any other agency. Through its support of rehabilitation research, capacity-building centers, model systems, developing accessible technologies, and knowledge translation, NIDILRR drives innovation in health, employment, housing, and community living for people with disabilities across the lifespan.

While we are requesting flat funding of $119 million for FY 2026, we wish to underscore that this amount falls significantly short of what is truly needed. When adjusted for inflation, NIDILRR's current budget supports far less research capacity than it did a decade ago. To adequately address the growing demand for community-based and data-driven disability research, and to support the next generation of disability researchers, we urge Congress to begin working toward a long-overdue funding increase to $150 million annually. This investment is critical to ensuring that research keeps pace with the evolving needs of the disability community, supports improvement in outcomes, and upholds the ultimate promise of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended.

We appreciate your continued leadership and commitment to advancing disability and rehabilitation research. Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Members of the Disability and Rehabilitation Research Coalition (DRRC)
